'No waiting' signs

Each week, the Express publishes public notices containing important information affecting your community. As part of the local newspaper industry's commitment to highlighting the important role of public notices, we have launched a new feature in print and online which will make it easier to keep track of notices which affect you. George Roberts reports

Restrictions are set to be imposed on more than 100 streets around Slough and new free parking spaces will be created on others, this week's public notices have revealed.

Roads and traffic:

The council is set to impose 'no waiting at any time restrictions' along sections of many of Slough's roads. Vehicles will no longer be able to stop and linger along various sections of the borough's highway network, on streets ranging from small residential roads to well-used routes like Bath Road and Chalvey High Street.

In some instances the restrictions will only apply at certain times and on certain days of the week.

Most of the restrictions will be imposed at the junctions with other roads, but in many cases vehicles will also no longer be allowed to loiter outside residential properties. See overleaf for the exhaustive list of streets affected.

Meanwhile, some roads will have the 'no waiting at any time' restrictions removed, including on a section of Banbury Avenue, and parts of Goodman Park.

The council is also planning to create some areas of free
