Bridgerton plans 'inappropriate'

WINDSOR: The filming of a Netflix hit show may not happen in the Royal Borough as officers have recommended for the film set to be refused, writes James Bagley, Local Democracy Reporter.

Producers are eyeing to film season two of Bridgerton, which is the streaming service's most-watched series, at Windsor Great Park.

The show is a period drama set in the regency-era and stars Julie Andrews, Adjoa Andoh, and many more.

If plans are given the go-ahead this would involve building a film set on land adjacent to the Drawery at the park for a period of five-years, to allow filming to take place on an annual basis for each series during the summer.

The built set will recreate a London Square in the regency era surrounded by fake buildings that cover an area of 120m x 120m.

None of the buildings will be enclosed or have roofs.

In addition, there will also be temporary structure used as an office, independent power and water supply, tech area and storage containers, a marquee for costumes and dining and construction, and general waste skips.

The majority of these facilities will only be brought onto the site during filming week.

To the east of the site, 150 car parking spaces will be provided for the cast and crew members.

Councillors on the Royal Borough Development Management panel will meet face-to-face for the first time at the Holiday Inn in Maidenhead on Wednesday, May 19, to consider this application. Planning officers have recommended the plans to be refused over fears of the 'loss of openness' to the green belt and will affect the character of the area.

In the report, they write: "The proposal is inappropriate development in the Green Belt and would result in loss of openness to the Green Belt and lead to encroachment of development in the countryside.

"Very special circumstances' do not exist in this case to justify granting planning permission and the proposal."

They add: "The proposal would detract from the rural character and appearance of the area and be detrimental to the recreational value of the public footpath.

"Insufficient information has been submitted to demonstrate that protected species and/or their habitats would not be adversely affected by the proposal."

Plans to build a set for the new Bridgerton series in Windsor Great Park have been recommended for refusal by planning officers.

Hatfield Road, Park Street, Wexham Road and Windsor Road will also increase by 10p per hour.

Band C, which includes Albert Street and St Laurence Way, is set to increase from £1.40 per hour to £1.60 per hour.

Band D, which includes Sandringham Court and Waterside Drive, will rise from £1.20 per hour to £1.50 per hour. Residents' parking permits within designated residents' parking zones are also set to increase.

People living in the affected areas will now have to pay £45 for their first permit rather than £25 with the price of a second permit almost doubling from £50 to £90.

Glimmer of hope for campaigners trying to save Wellingtonia tree from the chop DATCHET: There's a glimmer of hope for one of Datchet's oldest trees as it is given a lifeline to save it from being chopped down, writes James Bagley, Local Democracy Reporter.

Locals have set up an online campaign group on Facebook, urging the Royal Borough to revoke their decision to allow the Wellingtonia tree in Southlea Road to be cut down despite it having a tree protection order.

The group is called 'Save Datchet Tree' and has, so far, accumulated 52 members.

Engineers justified the removal of the 170-year-old tree as the roots were causing cracks and fractures to the nearby three-bed property's kitchen and external left-hand flank wall.

Planning officers sided with the engineer's survey, adding if they did not approve the removal, the council would be 'liable' to a compensation claim of around £188,000.

The report states the two-storey detached home is due to be sold off.

Since officers gave the application the go-ahead, ward and parish councillors as well as residents vehemently opposed the plans and urged officers to rethink their judgement.

The campaign group have urged their followers and Datchet residents to write to the tree department, the head of planning, and the managing director of the council to demand the grand old tree to be saved.

According to their Facebook page, protesters have until May 26 to voice their objections.

They wrote: "The tree may be implicated in subsidence issues that affect a neighbouring building; however, a tree expert has provided different remedies that could stabilise the building and preserve the tree.

"Astonishingly these recommendations have been ignored and it would appear a cost-driven decision has been made that impacts

Datchet's Heritage and the Conservation Area in which the tree stands.

"It is within RBWM's [Royal Borough of Windsor and Maidenhead] power to save this tree. We can ask them to revoke their decision to allow the tree to be felled and pursue other options."

Direct Line Insurance commissioned the engineer's report and application, and campaigners are emailing the CEO, Penny James, to withdraw their plans and keep to their carbon neutral commitment.

In an email sent to a resident, Penny James wrote: "I have asked my team to look into this matter and we will get back to you as soon as possible."
